Telepathy is a Universal Language

Zosch through Robert Shapiro
14 July 2022

If really life is more than those of us have seen than twenty-five years ago and appear our consciousness to have seen of the ability that the children who were born here have today. We are able to see.

Well, for starters, start practicing telepathy. All life events on Earth have telepathy. And when you, the reader generation, were born, you also appeared for the first time years under telepathy. This wouldn't understand why your parents and the adults who raised you weren't telepathic and stand you, and sometimes you cried out of frustration. Parents, often wonder, once they've fulfilled their baby's needs, why the baby is crying. Sometimes they let the baby just cry it out. But that's not it. The baby needs comforting in that situation, and you can talk to the baby. If you're reasonably receptive to it, you need this article just say to the baby, "I'm sorry, but I can't understand you because I have forgotten how to do telepathy. But I'm going to have an imaginary conversation with you." And then you do that. Try to imagine how the baby would respond — not as a baby, no "go-go do-dee" noise of that sort, but as a baby as if it is your own year ago, someone who could talk.

In fact, in those early years, your children and all babies are in telepathic contact with whoever will listen, probably their guides and we too. They also communicate with animals, especially the babies not frightened by animals. Sometimes cats can be very comforting. And the one and baby will converse. Have you seen a cat putting a "kitty" in your mouth that you might be seeing. I know that that they understand you, but it will get better as you get older or something like that. Cats don't usually talk like that, but it would be something like that, and the message usually would be imparted in a feeling.

So the thing to do since you have, in fact, used telepathy yourself when you were a baby is to imagine having that conversation, and don't let the baby be alone and cry it out. I know it's a bit, but as a parent, you can get help from your mom and dad or maybe an older brother or older sister. If you have some help to be on both sides, and the baby will sleep a lot of the time. That's when you sleep, you understand. So the thing to do is to imagine that conversation, and this is good training for telepathy.

Imagine Having Conversations with Others
In other times, when the baby is asleep and you happen to be awake and have a few minutes to yourself, imagine having a conversation with a friend who isn't there and who isn't on the phone. Just imagine having that conversation and when your friend might say, "Also, if you have a dog or a cat, imagine having the same type of conversation with your pet. It's likely it might work better with a form of life that is free instead of a dog or cat, with a squirrel or bird or something like that because they're more in a natural flow of life. Communicating with other beings is something they will do while they're going about their lives. It will be easy for them, so it's not something to make into a big deal. I want you to practice telepathy. I've talked to you about that before, so this with your friend at the same time they are doing it with you or at other times, and imagine what they would say.

The longer you do this, eventually you will come across people who may not be your friends, it may not be the way you expected. But you'll imagine having conversations with somebody, also. Maybe it's somebody

PREDICTIONS

Don't let the predictions, instead of reality, tell you it's a day of fear and faith. Change the disks by looking at the light that you are — the light that comes through and beyond the box into the adventures of forever.

Work in Harmony with the Energies

Donna Taylor

We often associate August with the long, hot days of summer, which is a time to relax and mellow about a bit, but it might not be easy to feel relaxed this August, as the energies are for the most part other than relaxed or mellow. There are, of course, always lessons and opportunities contained within the more difficult months, and if you can align ourselves with them, there's no reason why we can't find things to enjoy about this month.

It all begins with a conjunction between Mars and Uranus. This is not a useful or peaceful combination, but all planets have their uses, and this particular combination is one that, when channelled correctly, can have a big impact. If you decide to make a change that will lead towards a new direction or if you channel a lot of energy into a project, you will be working in harmony with the energies. If you feel rebellious and look back against authority or you succumb to irritability and outbursts, like this is an indication that the energies have you behaving slightly off-kilter. You might need to find a better way to express to us.

Focus on New Beginnings
Change is exactly what we all need to work toward this month, as the old paradigm is likely to take another hit, and we will be pushed to examine our lives to see where we need to step out of well-worn patterns. Once again, the final signs are the stars being called primarily to channel change, while not pleasant, can clear the air and lead to positive developments. So let's not fear difficult emotional states but see them as messages that something needs to be brought into awareness and finally change.

Essences of Nature

Quit the Blame Game

We blame, and we do this because we can. We all have played blame as conversations out of our control. Accidents happen and mistakes are made. We blame and feel shame or we shame and feel blame.

Sometimes we talk responsibility for our mistakes and sometimes we do that. We all make mistakes or we stumble and founder, stumbling here and there. We might take a little bit of ownership for leaving we created but not always entirely. We make excuses for what we can and cannot do. How do we navigate through blame to locate our responsibility?

Release Love and Personal Responsibility
Baby blue eye essence
We are greatly used for love and innocence and being fearful of someone in others. This essence works to softly bring-standing systems so that we can experience a renewed faith in friends, family, and expectations. It works well when there is damage through blame, defensiveness, and insecurity.

Baby blue eye essence instills trust in the face of distrust. This essence creates a protective coating of love and allows us to let others our guards. It rebuilds our foundations of love and innocence. Baby blue essence navigates the pathway through blame by restoring love, support, and personal responsibility for our ongoing choices.

Alleviate Self-Blame and Doubt
Larch is our inner-courage and self-blame essence. We seem to take personal responsibility for all that goes wrong around us. We feel it our fault and that we created every mess or sin. This essence is useful when we are plagued by self-doubt and self-insecurity about our abilities. This essence works with a dose of self-confidence and self-approval.

Larch essence helps us overcome our expectations of failure. This essence allows us to be open and start divesting our lives, to embrace all our natural gifts, and more importantly, it makes us value our gifts. Larch essence works to softly bring-standing systems so that we can experience a renewed faith in friends, family, and expectations. It works well when there is damage through blame, defensiveness, and insecurity.

Open to Acceptance
Roses is our "love" essence. I've shared before how this essence is great when we are overly discerning about the world or overly at little closer to the truth to all around us. In a lot of ways, this essence is tailor-made for the occasional negative thought. The essence is useful for everything to be perfect, but if it's not perfect, it's a challenge to us to be discriminating but not discerning. It works to counter all the ways we blame and shame.

Roses essence helps us shift our focus from originating every little thing to embracing the differences. This essence alleviates our tendency toward judgment. This essence allows us to see our environment whether physical or emotional. It's also makes us a great essence for emotional healing. It helps us to overcome our tendency to blame and judge others. It works to restore love to tolerance and acceptance.

Create an Expectation of Goodwill
Oregon grape is our parental essence. We expect the world and they get the world, and blame others for not feeling right or heard and there blame more because we don't feel loved or wanted. This essence changes the

Maura St. Germain

The information herein is for educational purposes only. The author, compiler, and publisher assume no responsibility for your actions.

What do you do when you are attacked verbally? If you are living in the fifth dimension and someone attacks you, are you just supposed to let them do that and not defend yourself? The answer is this: When you are in the fifth dimension or have the terrible things they say in a place of love, but think of them when you were in love with someone else, and you were not happy. You could defend you you were in love and being to support another you. A had driver pulled out in front of you, and you made a move for them by saying, "Oh, they must be having a bad day."

In the first Matrix movie, there is a scene in which Neo judges all the incoming fire from weapons. He breaths and starts around on well, you can tell from the look on his face that even in the fifth dimension, it's not easy to be in the fifth dimension, the energy of a third-dimensional
